The Clark Scholarship Prize for the one who reads and spells the best at the close of the winter term, was awarded to Mary Pollard.

Not absent or tardy during the year: Jared Williams and Lillian Parsons. Not absent: Ellen Dougherty, Alfred and Dana Pelton.

In this school we were fortunate in securing the services of Mr. A. A. Gridley for the spring term, and should have been glad to keep him as a teacher for a longer time, but on account of the pay we could offer him were unable to do so.

Miss Raeder came to us with no experience in ungraded work, but with a determination to succeed not only in teaching from books, but in bringing her pupils to feel that whatever they did should be done from a high moral principle, and at the close of the school there was a decided improvement to be seen—in both respects.

The question of uniting the schools has been a hard one to settle. The selectmen, together with the committee, have not as yet thought it best to use the Town Hall for a school room. There would of necessity have been a large expense for desks and seats, with other changes which would not be advisable for a temporary trial. The law passed last winter in regard to High Schools, a copy of which is found in this report, has led your committee to recommend to the town a permanent provision for having a school in town, which can take the pupils through the first two years at least of a high school course, and save the tuition for the benefit of our own schools.

The older pupils in this school should be provided the opportunity of taking a course of studies which belong to a high school, and if the town will not provide it for them here, we feel that the parents will see the necessity of sending them to other towns.

Your committee have found it advisable to maintain this school for the entire year. At the beginning of the year there were twenty pupils enrolled, and the attendance was good, but during the year two of the families moved away and others have seemed to lose an interest in school work and when the children were sent to school the parents in some cases have not interested themselves enough to see that they were punctual in attendance, so that we find in one case in the last term the pupil was tardy 21 times in an attendance of 28 days.

If the membership of the school should remain the same as for the last term, it would be better for the school to unite with some other school, for the spring term, and we hope that the town will provide a suitable place where a permanent arrangement can be made for all of its pupils, and the older scholars have the benefit of a higher class of studies.

At the beginning of the year, the question of bringing the scholars from this school to the center was discussed by your committee, and arrangements could have been made to do so, but the expense would have been nearly as great as to maintain the school, and the scholars were nearly all so small that we concluded it would be best to continue the school the same as last year, especially as Miss Kingsley was willing to teach.

The bill of Mr. Hayden and Mr. Williams was for work done last year, but did not come to us in season for last year's report. The attendance for last year has been larger than in previous years, but we still think that if some arrangement could be made, by which the school could unite with other schools, these children might derive a much greater benefit for the money expended than they are now able to do.

Having examined the accounts and vouchers of the School Committee of the town of Westhampton for the year ending March 1st, 1895, I find them correct with orders given for expenditures, to the amount of fourteen hundred and sixty-eight and 19-100 dollars, ($1468.19.)

REPORT

School Superintendent.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE:

GENTLEMEN:

As set forth in previous reports, the difficulties of carrying on ungraded schools in sparsely settled communities are great. As the years have passed, these difficulties in New England hill towns have increased, owing mainly to the removal of many families and to the smaller size of the modern family.

CONVEYANCE.

Last year the town took an advanced position when it authorized the conveyance of pupils to the center of the town. Personally I cannot but lament that a trial of the plan was not made. However, believing in the wisdom of the committee, I still have faith, and believe that sooner or later the town will re-enforce the decision of last year by not only voting conveyance, but providing ample accommodations at the center for the children who are to be conveyed. While it may not appear feasible to establish a high school at the center, the plan of establishing a central grammar school is certainly worth trying. It is not my purpose to repeat here arguments familiar to the voters, but simply to recall attention to this very important consideration.

TEACHERS.

From my experience of the past year in the schools of this town, one conclusion is paramount. Teachers' salaries here are too low. The time is passing when the work of teachers can be classed with that of a house servant or farm hand, important and honorable as this latter service is. The teacher is called to mold and fashion the minds and hearts of children. If teachers were simply to fill their pupils with facts of various kinds, the case would be different, then any one in possession of the facts could be trusted to do the filling. To arouse and set in order the intellectual forces, to help the child discover his place in the world, and to direct him in gaining control of himself and his surroundings calls for talent of no ordinary type. This town has often been fortunate in securing, from the ranks of its own young women, teachers of the requisite qualifications. This has not, however, always been possible. Owing to the low salaries paid, school officers have frequently been unable to secure and retain good talent. To enable the committee to adequately compensate efficient teachers now on the force and to secure and retain others of equal quality, the town should increase the appropriation for salaries by at least one-half the present sum.

There is another side of the case and one of vital importance. For the salaries we pay, we are obliged to take in-experienced talent. By dint of labor and pains, the teacher is trained toward efficiency. Presently she is discovered, and attracted elsewhere by an increase of salary, while we are left to repeat the same process upon another. While this practice may be profitable for young teachers, it can never be made profitable for the schools. Salaries must be increased if the town is to profit by the practice and training furnished young teachers. I am not unmindful of the fact that times are "hard," prices low, and taxes high, yet, when we consider the value of the children, the good or ill which may be worked by the teacher in neglect or cultivation of habits, in confusion or regulation of minds, in degradation or elevation of morals of the children, what nobler and more appropriate use can be found for an expenditure of money than upon high minded, thoroughly trained teachers, in whose care the future of the children will be safe?

ATTENDANCE.

Attendance in some of the schools has been poor. There are certain families who still seem to have the impression that schools are secondary to most matters. I would again recommend that the truant officer be instructed to take action against parents unfaithful in the discharge of the important duty of sending their children to school.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL LAW.

The recent change in state law relating to high schools, which practically provides a high school for all the children in the commonwealth, while it may add to the burden of the town, will ultimately prove itself a public benefactor by the blessings which the increased opportunities it presents are sure to bring. Moreover, what is the slight expense of tuition of a few pupils in the high school of some neighboring town as compared with the expense of providing equal advantages at home. But some will urge that a grammar school education is all that the town ought to give. Is it? Rather should not every loyal public spirited citizen feel proud that the advantages of a high school, once within reach of only the few, may now be enjoyed by all at the expense of the town? The law relative to this matter together with the present law on attendance is appended.

Respectfully submitted,

B. C. DAY.

Extracts from the Public Statutes of Massachusetts

CHAPTER 436.

SECTION 1.—Any town in which a high school or school of corresponding grade is not maintained shall pay for the tuition of any child who with the parent or guardian resides in said town and who attends the high school of another town or city, provided the parent or guardian of such child before such attendance obtains the approval of the school committee of the town in which the child and parent or guardian reside.

SECTION 2.—If any town in which a high school or school of corresponding grade is not maintained neglects or refuses to pay for tuition as provided in the preceding section, such town shall be liable therefor to the parent or guardian of the child furnished with such tuition, if the parent or guardian has paid the same, or to the town or city furnishing the same, in an action of contract.

SECTION 3.—No member of the school committee of a town in which a high school or school of corresponding grade is not maintained shall refuse to approve the attendance of any child in the high school of another city or town, charging a reasonable amount for tuition, if such child is properly qualified to enter such high school, unless said town is prepared to furnish such child proper instruction in its own schools in the studies usually taught in a high school. If the school committee of such town unreasonably refuses to grant such approval such town shall be liable for the tuition of such child in the same manner and to the same extent as if the parent or guardian of such child had obtained the approval of the school committee.

SECTION 4.—Any town in which a high school or school of corresponding grade is not maintained, but affording high school instruction by sending pupils to other towns, may pay the necessary transportation expenses of such pupils.

SECTION 5.—Chapter two hundred and sixty-three of the Acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-one is hereby repealed.

AN ACT RELATING TO SCHOOL ATTENDANCE AND TRUANCY.

Sect. 1. Every person having under his control a child between the ages of eight and fourteen years, and, in cities and towns where industrial training is taught, between the ages of eight and fifteen years, shall annually cause such child to attend some public day school in the city or town in which he resides for at least thirty weeks, if the schools are kept open that length of time, with an allowance of two weeks' time for absences not excused by the superintendent of schools or the school committee; such period of attendance shall begin within the first month of the fall term of school, and for each five days of absence of any such child thereafter, in excess of the above allowance, before the completion of the required annual attendance of thirty weeks, the person having such child under his control shall, upon the complaint of the school committee or any truant officer, forfeit to the use of the public schools of such city or town a sum not exceeding twenty dollars; but if such child has attended for a like period of time a private day school approved by the school committee of such city or town, or if such child has been otherwise instructed for a like period of time in the branches of learning required by law to be taught in the public schools, or has already acquired the branches of learning required by law to be taught in the public schools, or if his physical or mental condition is such as to render such attendance inexpedient or impracticable, such penalty shall not be incurred.

Sect. 3. The truant officers and the school committees of the several cities and towns shall vigilantly inquire into all cases of neglect of the duty prescribed in section one, and ascertain the reasons, if any, therefor; and such truant officers or any of them shall, when so directed by the school committee, prosecute in the name of the city or town any person liable to the penalty provided for in said section. Police, district and municipal courts, trial justices and judges of the probate court, shall have jurisdiction within their respective counties of the offences described in section one.

Sect. 4. All children within the Commonwealth may attend the public schools in the place in which they have their legal residence, subject to the regulations prescribed by law.

Sect. 10. The school committee shall not allow any pupil to attend the public schools while any member of the household to which such pupil belongs is sick with small pox, diphtheria, or scarlet fever, or during a period of two weeks after the death, recovery, or removal of such sick person: and any pupil coming from such household shall be required to present, to the teacher of the school the pupil desires to attend, a certificate, from the attending physician or board of health, of the facts necessary to entitle him to admission in accordance with the above regulation.
